Finally, Teachers and Librarians May Be Held Accountable for Obscene Books and Lessons

New Ohio House Bill 556 removes exemption for K-12 teachers and school librarians.

How concerned should we be about the XXX-rated content in some books for youth? I think we should be outraged, and that's why I am so thrilled to see a bill in Ohio that would make teachers and school librarians liable for distributing obscenity.

They no longer would be exempt for alleged "educational" reasons!

Thank you to Rep. Adam Mathews \(R-Lebanon\) for sponsoring this legislation.

Please call your Ohio House rep and urge him/her to support HB 556.

To find out who your Ohio House rep is, go HERE. Please also call the Speaker of the Ohio House, Jason Stephens, and urge him to move this bill along. To read the bill, click below.

The Ruth Institute has declared June 2 as the "Ex-Gay Day of Visibility."

We agree, with one slightly amended thought: there is nothing wrong with actually encouraging people to leave the "LBGTQ" life. And we should remove its promotion from our schools.
