OH Governor DeWine Keeps Obscenity for Kids in Libraries. Now What?

Mission America alert

An army of angry, clueless librarians and library trustees convinced Ohio Governor Mike DeWine to veto a protective section of the Ohio Budget (HB 96). Both the Ohio House and Senate voted to direct public libraries to place material on sexual orientation and gender identity away from patrons under 18, but DeWine thought that was too “vague.”

The librarian whining and moaning was an outrageous misuse of their public positions, sending out emails to patrons demanding calls to DeWine to stop this “unworkable” measure.

Here’s what one mom wrote to the Cuyahoga library board of trustees: “Do not use my email ever again for political purposes & stop the professional librarians (strangers) from pandering adult materials to youth. Mirror parents & adults who hold common decency standards for youth rather than benchmarking with those who do not.”

Supreme Court Busts "Pride" to Rescue Hostage Children

Linda Harvey

Just as “pride” month closed, the Supreme Court bestowed on our nation several precious legal gifts wrapped in familial love, sane medicine, respected faith and parental oversight.

Let’s look at Mahmoud v. Taylor, which opens up a world of possibilities for scaling back or eliminating “LGBTQ” propaganda in schools altogether.

And I have a personal interest in celebrating the outcome as a board member of Protect Ohio Children, which signed an amicus brief in the case.
